

Becoming a good and responsible individual employer

Good Boss Support Network is a support group for individual employers (IEs) or the people who represent them, across the UK. It is for individuals who use their Social Care Personal Budgets/direct payments (DPs) and/or Personal Health Budgets (PHBs) to employ personal assistants (PAs) to deliver the care and support they need to help them in all areas of independent living. Here, Sebastian Lynn, Admin Assistant, shares his experience of being involved in peer support.

As an individual employer, I have found it challenging to find the right support. However, the Good Boss Support Network has been a game-changer for me. It provides a safe space where I can share my experiences and learn from others who are in a similar position. The network offers a range of resources, including advice on legal matters, financial management, and finding suitable personal assistants. This support has been invaluable in helping me to become a more confident and responsible employer.

One of the key benefits of the network is the opportunity to connect with other individual employers. This has allowed me to build a strong support network and to share my own experiences and advice with others. The network also provides a platform for sharing best practice and for discussing common challenges. This has helped me to improve my own practice and to become a more effective employer.

In addition, the network offers a range of training and development opportunities. This has helped me to gain the skills and knowledge I need to be a successful employer. The network also provides a platform for sharing my own experiences and advice with others. This has helped me to become a more confident and responsible employer.

Overall, the Good Boss Support Network has been a fantastic resource for me. It has provided me with the support and advice I need to become a good and responsible individual employer. I would highly recommend it to anyone who is looking for support in this area. The network is a true lifeline for individual employers and their families.
